

TROPILUNCH

“Every Place has an Owner!”: Intangible Beings and Katukina Indigenous People Relationship in Appropriation, Use and Sharing of Territories (Amazon, Brazil).

MYRIAN BARBOZA

Professor at Federal University of Western Pará (UFOPA),
Ph.D. Candidate at the Department of Anthropology, Univ. of Florida

TUESDAY, MARCH 13

12:45 – 1:45

GRINTER 376

SUMMARY

Myrian Barboza will present one of her dissertation chapters and the activities developed through TCD Practitioner Experiences 2017 award: “What we want from your research!”: Returning research results to Amazon indigenous people through education and participatory methods.

BIO

Myrian Barboza has an academic background in biology, indigenism, and anthropology, and has collaborated with different research groups in Amazonia (Brazil) since 2004. She has conducted collaborative ethnoecological and anthropological studies with different indigenous groups. She is a professor of the Archaeology and Anthropology program at the Federal University of Western Pará (UFOPA). At UFOPA she has also been working as a mentor to support indigenous students' permanence at the university. She is now concluding her Ph.D. on Anthropology at the University of Florida titled: “Tükuna Cosmological Cartography”: Meaning and Use of Territories by Katukina Indigenous People from Biá river in the Brazilian Amazon.

Tropilunch is a weekly seminar run by graduate students from the Tropical Conservation and Development (TCD) Program. It provides a forum for a range of discussions and presentations related to TCD work and research. Special guests, visiting scholars and practitioners also participate. It happens every Tuesday @t 12:45 – 1:45 p.m. in Grinter 376. Tropilunch presentations are recorded and posted weekly on TCD's YouTube Channel.