

TROPILUNCH

AN EVIDENCE-BASED APPROACH TO IMPROVING THE EFFECTIVENESS OF CONSERVATION AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT (CSD) PROJECTS IN MADRE DE DIOS, PERU

TANIA ROMERO BAUTISTA

Student at the Master of Sustainable Development Practice (MDP),
University of Florida

---

TUESDAY, MARCH 20

12:45 – 1:45

GRINTER 376

---

SUMMARY

Tania will present a first compilation of findings and lessons learned from her recent Field Practicum research, which she conducted this past summer in the Southern Peruvian Amazon.

BIO:

Tania Romero Bautista has an academic background in ecotourism, community- based conservation, and sustainable use of natural resources in the Amazon (Peru), and has collaborated with different research and conservation organizations in the Peruvian Amazon since 2009. She has worked in conservation and community projects with the local government and NGOs in an effort to link conservation and community wellbeing. Tania is a Fulbright scholar and current Master's student in the Sustainable Development Practice (MDP) Program at the University of Florida.

Tropilunch is a weekly seminar run by graduate students from the Tropical Conservation and Development (TCD) Program. It provides a forum for a range of discussions and presentations related to TCD work and research. Special guests, visiting scholars and practitioners also participate. It happens every Tuesday @t 12:45 – 1:45 p.m. in Grinter 376. Tropilunch presentations are recorded and posted weekly on TCD's YouTube Channel.