

Conservation & Development Forum

The Tropical Conservation & Development Student Group presents:

Exploring Social and Environmental Dimensions of Health in Africa and Latin America: The View from Anthropology

February 17th, 12:45 - 2:45 PM
376 Newins-Ziegler Hall

Featuring:

Dr. Alyson Young (Assistant Professor, Department of Anthropology, UF)
"Perceptions of the Margins: Environment, Resource Security, and Health among Datoga Pastoralists in northern Tanzania"

Noelle Sullivan (PhD Candidate, Department of Anthropology, UF)
"The Impact of Donor Programs on Healthcare Delivery in Tanzania; or, Tumaini's Travels through the Government Hospital"

Alan Schultz (PhD Student, Department of Anthropology, UF)
"Social Evaluative Stress and Social Networks Among the Tsimane' of Lowland Bolivia"

Student Group
University of Florida

Spread the word!